

Top House Ways and Means Republican Says Year End-Tax Bill Possible

The House Ways and Means Committee Ranking Member Kevin Brady (R-TX) told reporters that there is a decent chance Congress can pass a year-end tax bill if Democrats are willing to keep the package “relatively tight.”

Brady said that a tax bill which renewed some extenders and included a few corrections to the 2017 Tax Cuts and Jobs Act (TCJA) could possibly pass both chambers by the end of the year. With the federal government due to run out of funding by December 20, there have been discussions in Congress about including tax legislation in a potential year-end spending agreement.

On November 21, NDA sent a letter to Congress urging them to pass tax extenders legislation by the end of the year. You can read the letter here.
